answering the call anytime, for any reason

When a young person is struggling, it's often when others aren't readily available to help. But with your help, Kids Helpline is a vital safety net - free, 24/7 service means we're always here, ready to listen when it matters most.

That round-the-clock support is key, as 79% of the young people who reach out to us do so outside normal working hours. Those quiet, often overwhelming moments late at night or early in the morning when the world feels most challenging - that's when our qualified counsellors are here, ready to offer understanding, compassion, and guidance.

These challenges are evolving rapidly. The digital world is changing how young people experience both connection and risk. Cyberbullying, the complex pressures of online life, and emerging issues like sextortion are real situations young people navigate every single day. And with more reaching out online, our counsellors are also constantly adapting, ensuring we can support young people regardless of the problems they face or how they ask for help.

Your generosity does something remarkable. You're not just keeping our phone lines and chat services open. You're creating a space where young people can feel truly heard, where they're reminded they're not alone, and where hope feels possible again.

Thank you for standing with us in 2025 and for believing that every young person across Australia deserves support, no matter the reason or the time of day.
