a monumental milestone

Over 30 years ago, we launched Kids Helpline with a vision: to make free, confidential support available to every child and young person in Australia – wherever they live, whenever they need it.

Thanks to community support, that vision became reality. From phone calls to webchat, digital tools, and peer support, we've grown to meet young people where they are – reaching nearly nine million contacts along the way.

Think about that number for a moment. Those young people who first reached out to us decades ago? They've grown up, built lives, and become parents themselves. And the children reaching out to us today will become tomorrow's leaders, change-makers, and nurturers of the next generation.

By supporting this art union, you're not just in the running to win an incredible prize – you're helping light the way for young people when they need it most.

Together, we're not just answering calls. We're answering the call to care. Thank you!
