Your support provides light in the darkest times
"I thank Kids Helpline with all my heart."

Recently I have been revisiting the stories bravely shared by young people who have accessed Kids Helpline counselling in a true hour of need after experiencing, or being at risk of, real harm.

Nearly 100 contacts to Kids Helpline every week involve duty of care responses, where counsellors engage with external services such as police, ambulance, domestic and family services and homeless shelters to assist children in desperate situations involving suicide, abuse and assault.

The quote comes from Billy*, 16, who contacted Kids Helpline after trying to self-harm following years of bullying. Our trained counsellors were able to connect Billy with the help he needed, and equip him with the skills to begin to live a brighter life.

Your support of yourtown Prize Home Draws help us connect with more young people like Billy, and to equip the next generation to continue to advocate for their own safety, along with the safety of others.
